

I have a beautiful 5 year old pit/lab mix named Maya. She's bizarrely intelligent and learns new tricks at the drop of a hat... doesn't require too much exercise, and very sweet.

Unfortunately she has never gotten along with smaller dogs, and recently fought and killed our chihuahua mix. They'd lived together for 5 years and not had a problem, but something happened.

My wife is inconsolable and I'm not too far off myself.

I know Maya can be a great dog for the right home (one with no small dogs and a savvy dog owner), but I'm afraid we can never get past what happened in ours. For the right owner Maya will be fun, loyal, entertaining, and just a little bit jealous (in a funny way) of other humans. She's just a great dog.

It breaks my heart to have to give her up, but I would badly like help finding Maya the right owner.

I'm in tears as I write this... I don't want to have to take her to a euthanizing shelter. I've already got her out of the house and we have a week (11/20) to find her a new home, or even a foster for now.

Can you help?
